“Women in Computing” lecture series is organized by the ACM-W at the Department of Computer Science and Engineering. The goal of the lecture series is to encourage female students to choose a CSE major, continue working in computer science, and foster a love for the field.

- We welcome both men and women!
- Lunch/Dinner always provided (20 min before the talk)!

Featured speakers will include successful female and under-represented computer scientists, business leaders, and entrepreneurs. Topics include job search, academic career, industry career, etc.

- Upcoming Speakers in Winter 2014:
  - Panel Discussion by Michigan Council of Women in Technology
    ▪ Jan. 23rd, PH 318, 12pm – 1pm
  - Dr. Emily Provost, University of Michigan Ann Arbor
    ▪ Feb. 19th, SEB 372, 5pm – 6pm
  - Dr. Laura Dillon, Michigan State University
    ▪ March 14th, SEB 372, 12pm – 1pm
  - Dr. Anne Marsan, Atomic Object
    ▪ April 9th, SEB 372, 5pm – 6pm

If you have any questions about this lecture series, contact Dr. Zhou at wzhou@oakland.edu